

JACKDAW

This is a small, black crow with a distinctive silvery sheen to the back of its head. The pale eyes are also noticeable. Jackdaws often join up with rooks and carrion crows in autumn and winter to roost together in huge numbers.

HOUSE SPARROW

Noisy and gregarious, these cheerful exploiters of man's rubbish and wastefulness, have managed to colonise most of the world. The ultimate avian opportunist perhaps.

BLUE TIT

A colourful mix of blue, yellow, white and green makes the blue tit one of our most attractive and most recognisable garden visitors. In winter, family flocks join up with other tits as they search for food.

GREAT TIT

The largest UK tit - green and yellow with a striking glossy black head with white cheeks and a distinctive two-syllable song. It is a woodland bird which has readily adapted to man-made habitats to become a familiar garden visitor.

ROBIN

With its bright red breast it is familiar throughout the year and especially at Christmas! Males and females look identical, and young birds have no red breast and are spotted with golden brown.
